We recently completed an extensive renovation of our home with Heath Kelly Construction as our contractor. There are two things that define this experience; the first is what I call the “trust factor”. When I first met with Heath, it was like meeting with a surgeon who you are about to entrust your health too. As we talked and I got to know him, it was clear that he was a man of honest character and integrity. He was someone I could entrust our home with. Our interior designer and her team also had rock solid confidence in the HKC team and spoke highly of Heath. Throughout the process, our trust in Heath, his team, and his sub-contractors that he utilizes grew. Not once did we doubt our decision to select HKC as our contractor.

The second defining theme of our experience is the HKC Standard of Excellence. The sub-contractors HKC utilizes were held to this Standard of Excellence during each phase. If they needed to return 2-3 times to get it right, the HKC team made sure it was completed to the highest standard of quality. There were multiple challenges that arose as we were working with a 100-year-old house, and each one was successfully maneuvered due to the years of experiences the site manager has. Finally, Heath was also very detailed and timely with his invoices allowing us to track our budget in real time.

If you choose Health Kelly Construction as your contractor, consider yourself blessed, and get ready for an incredible, life-changing experience. They made our dreams come true.”
